Steps to retrieve my Yahoo account password without having the old mobile phone numbers or the associated email.

Steps 1: Go to the Yahoo account login page

To retrieve the previous Yahoo password, you must first go to the official login section of the Yahoo account. And after that, you must click on the Login Assistant (Need help?) In the Yahoo account that will redirect you to the next section to recover the password.

Steps 2: click on I don't remember password

Now, once you have entered the next section, you must click on the "I don't remember password" option. There is also an option for you to choose, even if you have forgotten your email ID. (But here we are only concerned with password recovery, not email)

Step 3: Enter your Yahoo email ID

Now the next step is to add your valid email ID, which will take you to the next recovery step. Here, in this step, you must provide the valid Yahoo email ID that you used during the registration process, that is, create the Yahoo account. This step is necessary because they must confirm that you are a user of the Yahoo account.

Step 4: click on password recovery options

In this section, you will get three options: mobile phone number recovery, alternate email address and one last secret question. Of all 3 options, a single option answered correctly can help you give your previous password. But if you do not respond, simultaneously try the next option that, of course, will help you recover.

Select one of the methods below to know the exact steps to securely verify your identity and retrieve your Yahoo password.

Now let us try all the methods below until you log in to your old Yahoo mail account.
1.Recovery using the phone number

Recovering the password using the phone number is the first process provided by Yahoo to perform a quick recovery. There are the following steps by which you can easily obtain the old Password and create a new one.
